

CALL FOR PAPERS

Revista de Estudios Sociales

OPEN TOPIC

Submission of articles
May 1st to 10th, 2023

The Revista de Estudios Sociales invites the academic community to submit unpublished articles in our next Open Topic call. We look forward for articles that propose critical, methodological, and theoretical analyzes relevant for the social sciences and that contribute to contemporary debates from sociology, history, anthropology, political science, philosophy, psychology, as well as cultural and gender studies. We accept manuscripts in Spanish, English and Portuguese.

All the contents published by the journal, in its different sections, aim at specialized audiences and the general public, with the purpose of building new knowledge, strengthening academic networks, serving as inputs for teachers and students, as well as participating in the construction of local and regional dialogues.

Articles will be received from May 1 to 10, 2023, through: <https://gestionrevistas.uniandes.edu.co/index.php/res/login>

All articles submitted for review must comply strictly with the journal's established guidelines (see: <http://revistas.uniandes.edu.co/for-authors/res/editorial-policy>). The articles submitted must not be in the process of evaluation or have editorial commitments with any other publication. Due to the amount of content that the journal receives in each of its calls, contributions from the same author are not published in a two-year period. Once the call for papers is closed, the editorial team evaluates the relevance of the manuscripts and verifies strict compliance with the editorial guidelines before sending successful articles to external peer evaluation.